About

After a year at Tulane's School of Architecture, I realized design of structures was simply not Comparative Literature before heading out to Los Angeles to pursue a more stable career in the arts. I've acted in TV shows you would probably know, but not in parts you would have noticed unless you already knew me. I've always done volunteer work. From mission work in Fiji, South Carolina, and my home state of Mississippi to Habitat for Humanity, Meals on Wheels, being an LGBTQIA mentor, and most recently working with WriteGirl in Los Angeles. While volunteering with WG's Bold Ink Writer's program to empower incarcerated youth to find their #ownvoices in creative writing I realized how much passion I have for 'designing' through words and telling stories that lighten and inspire the youth of tomorrow. When not writing I love world travel (Egypt, Peru, Central America, Greece, New Zealand, Scotland, Europe, etc.) and to stay active with yoga, meditation, and roller coasters or a nice skydive. Fondest memories include: fishing trips with my grandfather, receiving a standing ovation for a speech I gave at the National Young Leaders Conference in Washington, D.C., playing the piano at a five star French restaurant in the Bahamas, and jumping from the 700ft. Sky Tower in New Zealand (attached to a harness).
